

Field of the Bee

We are so excited about the fifth vintage of Field of Bee, and to have it as an exclusive release in Canada! Sourced from from the driest and hottest part of France, Côte du Roussillon, this white wine blend is pure joy in our books! Master of Wine and winemaker, Justin Howard-Sneyd, is thankful the 2017 vintage escaped the extreme weather that threatened the area during the growing season. The summer was blissfully warm, and had just enough rain for the grapes to remain fresh in the heat.

For a winery that usually produces red wine, they have partnered with a nearby vineyard and friend, Jean-Marc Lafage, owner of Chateau St Roch, for this approachable, dry, and peachy white wine. Both gentleman have an affinity for Grenache, so it it was a no brainer to create a blend of 50% Grenache Blanc ( from Jean-Marc), and 50% Grenache Gris (from Justin). With a nice weight to the palate, fall nights are a perfect pair. Enjoy today or cellar up to a year, and serve at 10 C.

Field of the Bee

GRENACHE BLANC, GRENACHE GRIS
CÔTE DU ROUSSILLON, FRANCE

13% ALCOHOL

RETAIL $47.99

CLUB $37.49

HOW IT LOOKS

A warm golden yellow, like a youthful daffodil. Golden flecks give a real shine.

HOW IT SMELLS

Grenache Blanc provides us with aromas green canned pears, fresh with a tinge of sweetness. Grenache Gris provides stone fruit notes like peach, white nectarine, and apricots. Secondary aromas of citrus, green plum and white florals lurk in the background.

FOOD PAIRING

For a light snack, salted almonds or a charcuterie board with your favourite meats. For a full meal, a shrimp and scallop pasta dish.

HOW IT TASTES

The combination of these two grapes gives us a "best of both worlds". A crisp, fresh, welcoming palate along with a rounder, weightier body. At first sip we are greeted with ripe pears and crunchy stone fruit notes. Honeysuckle, preserved citrus and green apple catch us on the finish. The medium acidity tickles our gums and keeps things zippy. Too cold and you might mute these flavours so let it warm just a little after pulling from the fridge.

LOVE THIS WINE?

Limited quantities available, buy more today.

WineCollective.ca